Taft's beloved bovine, Pauline Wayne, provided the finest milk and butter for the First Family to enjoy a fresh morning meal.

President Taft always requested steak for breakfast; Sunday's were no exception. Naturally, Mrs. Taft saw to it that steak appeared every morning on his plate, with smash brown potatoes.

Constructed in 1850 amidst the burgeoning Over-the-Rhine brewing industry, St. Paul's Evangelical Church was once the oldest protestant parish in the Queen City. Young Billy Taft may have even sauntered past, his cheeks still stained with gooseberry pie. Unbeknownst to him, this structure would carry on his own legacy.

The legend of Cincinnati's prodigal son lives on inside the hallowed halls of Taft's Ale House.
